Dear Mr Hedberg,

I hope this email finds you well. We had the opportunity to briefly meet at a dinner organised by Ambassador Gardner with [redacted] two weeks ago.

[redacted] (Google Executive Chairman) will be in Brussels together with [redacted] (SVP Corporate Development and Chief Legal Officer) on the 19th and 20th of January.

I would like to explore with you the possibility of setting up a meeting between [redacted] and Commissioner Bieńkowska. We have been working for the past few years on getting European SMEs and "traditional" businesses online, and are also actively engaged in the discussions of the Digital Entrepreneurship Forum.

The benefits of completing the Digital Single Market are immense, both for businesses and consumers but challenges must be addressed for it to drive job creation, promote innovation, and create a secure digital environment for users. [redacted] will be very keen to discuss and hear from Commissioner Bieńkowska on these issues.

Thanks to let me know if you believe Commissioner Bieńkowska would be interested, and who I could contact in your office to check on her availability on these dates.

Best regards,

[redacted]
