

The first year

During its first year, the ACPH received eight members of staff for informal meetings and consultations. It investigated nine formal complaints, covering all three main places of work, and completed the investigation of six of these.